History extends Over a 100 years

The history of Crown Point High School encompasses more than 100 years. From 1835 to 1836, Harrie Warner taught three students in her home. Her dedication served as an inspiration for education in Crown Point.

A few years later a building referred to as "the little black log cabin," was constructed and served as a settlement school until 1842. In 1878 a square building was erected at the corner of what is now North Street and North East Street. This building served as the Crown Point High School for many years. It was here that the first formal commencement was held in 1882.

In 1911 another high school was erected on South Court Street where South Ward, a former grade school had existed and where the YMCA now exists. This school equipped with a gymnasium, an auditorium, and larger classrooms with better lighting and ventilation. As time past, the ever increasing enrollment again necessitated construction of portable buildings to house manual training, band, and junior high school classes.

In 1939 a site was chosen for the construcation of a new school. Consisting of fourteen acres the site was located on West Joliet Street. In the fall of 1941 the new school was ready for occupation. The portable band building was moved from it's original place, enlarged, and located near the south entrance of the building. Directly across from the band portable was the Home Economics Cottage which was complete with kitchen, living room, bedroom, and sewing room.

Eighteen years passed without change. In 1959 another change took place, the addition of new classrooms, a music department, a physical education department, and a gym.

Finally in 1974 the school assumed a new look with the addition of more classrooms, an auditorium, an auxiliary gym, a pool, and a new track and football field.

In 1982, Crown Point School graduated the class of 1982, its 100th graduating class. The school has come a long, long way from its origin in "the little black log cabin," to a school to which the class of 1982 was proud "to be loyal and ever true."

Rowdy students Raise CPHS spirit

Although October 23 was a cold, brisk evening, the weather did not stop CPHS students from velling their loudest and showing their spirit at the 1981 Homecoming game.

The evening commenced with the annual Homecoming parade with students either watching the parade or participating with their various clubs and organizations in the parade. The actual game started at 7:30 p.m. with the Bulldogs raring to go. The game was a battle until the end. Though the Bulldogs did their best, the Munster Mustangs still managed to take the victory, 13-9.

To start the halftime activities Mr. Ed. O'Brien, CPHS sports broadcaster. announced the senior float, "Bulldogs ... are Proud as a Peacock," the winner of the float competition.

Next Mr. O'Brien presented the class princesses: freshman Shelly Blue, sophomore Lori Stiener, and junior Michele Queen. Then escorts led the four queen candidates, Nancy Lottes, Nancy Werblo, Arlene Halsted, and Cindy Goetz onto the field. As Patty Archbold. Booster Club President, and Dan Johnson, Student Council President, weaved in between the candidates, the anticipation of who would be queen became greater. With a smile on her face and tears in her eyes, Nancy Werblo was crowned the 1981 Homecoming Queen.

The following evening at the Homecoming dance, "Autumn Fantasy," Patty Archbold crowned Jim Bloede Mr. Football. The three other Mr. Football candidates were Lance Bonesteel, Dan Charlebois, and Bill Murray.

Powderpuff lives Traditions survive

Two weeks before Homecoming Patty Archbold, Booster Club president, was still in search of coaches for the 1981 powderpuff teams. Hope was almost lost but the thought of breaking the powderpuff tradition made, not only Patty, but other girls determined to find coaches. After a long search, coaches were found for each team and long hard practices began immediately. The game was held Wednesday October 21 at 7 p.m. on the football field. Although it was a bitter cold night, the stands were packed with spectators. The seniors won the hard fought battle 14-13.

During the week of Homecoming students showed their spirit by wearing class colors, western attire, crazy hats, wild punk rock outfits, and school colors on scheduled days instead of their usual attire.

On the night of class competitions, students took part in several activities such as an obstacle course, a banana eating contest, and passing apples.

Friday afternoon before the big game, all ticket holders were dismissed from their last hour classes to attend the traditional Homecoming assembly. During the assembly those who attended were rowdy and raring to go. The classes competed for the spirit stick, which finally went to the itty bitty freshmen. During the final yelling session with the cheerleaders, a person disguised as the school mascot gave students an extra boost of spirit that made the Homecoming truly exciting.

Enthusiastic crowd enjoys Turnabout

Nearly 200 couples attended the 1981 Turnabout Dance, "A Candlelight Christmas," held December 5, from 7 to 11 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Weeks before the dance, girls began thinking about asking that special someone. Searching for the perfect dress or hunting up an old one, ordering flowers and making dinner plans were a few preparations girls had to take care of before the dance.

On the morning of December 5, members of the Inklings staff decorated the cafeteria for the eventful evening.

The setting for the evening was a dimly lit cafeteria with the soft glow of Christmas tree lights catching couples' eyes as they entered. Murals of Christmas scenes, candles, streamers, bells and small burning candles on each table, contributed to the festive mood of the evening.

Although the dance got off to a slow start, the dance floor was suddenly crowded with couples who danced the night away. The enthusiasm of the couples made the 1981 Turnabout a night no one will forget.

The Chamber of Commerce (right) decorated the town square with a nativity scene and Christmas trees enhanced with colorful lights.

New administrative service center finally completed

In the beginning of the summer the Jewel and Osco stores opened along with many other stores to create a miniature shopping center. These stores included Bronco's. The Athlete's Foot. The Pinball Express, Fayva, R&J Fashions, Slick's Dry Cleaners and Launderers, and The Re-Sell-It Shop.

To the delight of many students these stores offered jobs for them to make money. This center also offered places to go for enjoyment. Many students went to Bronco's to eat pizza or try their luck at pinball.

In the end of January the roof of Jewel collapsed because of a heavy snow-fall. Fortunately, no one was seriously hurt, but the store had to be closed temporarily.

By the beginning of the school year the New Administrative Service Center was completed. The center had been renovated from the old Timothy Ball School, Construction had been slowed down by a fire that broke out in the building last spring.

St. Anthony's Hospital, which had been under construction since 1974. hopes to have its newest addition completed by 1983 or 1984.

This year at Christmas time the town square was beautifully decorated by the Crown Point Chamber of Commerce and CPHS art students. The Chamber of Commerce put up a traditonal nativity scene. The art students contributed large Christmas cards with scenes and verses which students worked on under the supervision of Mrs. Donna Pancini. The Chamber of Commerce hopes to add something new to decorate the square each year.

With the opening of Jewel, A&P closed in mid-August because of a slack in business. In the end of January the Cypress Pointe Apartments caught fire due to the carelessness of a janitor.

Tragic happenings darken world news

This year the nation stood transfixed while tragedy after tragedy overshadowed some very prestigious events.

After nearly two years of safety in the airways, disaster struck as an airliner bound for Boston crashed in the Potomac River in Washington killing all but 5 aboard.

On July 29, the world stood by and watched as the future king of England, Prince Charles, married Lady Diana Spencer in one of the most historic weddings on record. Barely four months later, the world once again focused on the royal couple when it was found that a new heir to the throne was expected.

The stars of top rated T.V. show Hart to Hart, Robert Wagner and Stephanie Powers, both suffered losses when Natalie Wood, Wagner's wife, drowned, and William Holden, Powers' close friend, was found dead in his apartment.

The world was stunned by the assassination of Anwar Sadat in middle October. A man of peace, his death has greatly affected the course of peace in the Middle East.

The new fad of the '80's is the Rubik's Cube. The cube, a six-colored puzzle with over a quadrillion combinations and only one solution has taken the world by storm. Contests have been held all over to determine the world's fastest cubist.

Video game arcades have become the new hangout for high school students. The games, usually involving a multicolored background with a firing mechanism, are netting billions of dollars per year.

In Poland, Russian troops invaded the capital and set up martial law, totally abolishing Solidarity. Prices in Poland rose 400 to 500 per cent.

Harrison Ford, Han Solo of Star Wars fame, returned this past year in the blockbuster box office smash, "Raiders of the Lost Ark" as explorer, archaeologist, and adventure "Indiana" Jones. Karen Allen co-stars as Marian Ravenwood, former lover and dedicated enemy of Jones.

Oil and gas prices have spiraled upwards and plummeted downwards many times this year. Libyan exported oil has been cut off to the U.S. making prices rise again.

Today's fashions are free and easy

Dominating the fashion scene this year were casual, comfortable, wearable styles. Conservative prep and bizarre punk looks added excitement and dazzle to everyone's wardrobes.

Corduroys were seen everywhere. Some were wide-ribbed and velvety in deep colors, while others were less dressy. Cords were dressed up with big fluffy sweaters and pearls, or shirts and knit ties, and dressed down with a favorite t-shirt or ski sweater and tennis shoes. A variety of thin leather belts added a look that tied tops and pants together.

Hitting with a forceful boom was the preppy look. Izod sweaters in vivid colors were definitely a favorite for both guys and girls with monogrammed sweaters running a close second. Solid colored shirts and blouses were worn under these sweaters which ranged from fire-engine red to bright blue. Deck shoes were also a prep favorite. Coming in a very light to a dark chocolate brown leather, white and navy blue, deck shoes were easily coordinated with jeans, dress pants, and even skirts. Plaid skirts were still popular this year, but we added a new look by wearing thick wool knee socks or leotards.

Adding a new and energetic twist was the punk look. Hair styles definitely leaned in the "punk" direction with hair short on top, but shoulder length behind the ears. Girls double pierced their ears and wore dangly gold.

Sequins, loud prints, and buttons with names and pictures of favorite groups on them all helped create the punk look.

Jeans were as popular as ever. Designers names were flashed everywhere, making the old standby appear more dressy. Straight legs looked great with cowboy boots, while baggies were often accented with loafers.

Headbands were a new accessory used to hold hair back, created a feminine image, or worn around the forehead for a natural, carefree appearance.

Sharp, short leather jackets woolly, warm long coats, and bright ski jackets kept students toasty warm during the winter.

All in all, styles headed toward a free, easy-going trend. Students had fun with the extravagant punk and clean-cut prep. Corduroys, jeans, skirts, and sweaters remained all time favorites.

Modeling this year's casual look for guys is Brian Richter (top left) wearing corduroys with a striped sweater and tennis shoes.

Speaker tells students to try new experiences

The ninth annual mid-term graduation was held January 22, 1982. The ceremony began with the invocation by Amy Kilburg. The class welcome was then given by senior class president, Bill Lewis. The Reverend Roger Box, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Crown Point gave the baccalaureate message.

The number of mid-term graduates was cut in half from last year. Only forty-five students graduated in January this year.

Miss Marilee Thanholdt, Crown Point English teacher, gave the commencement address, "How to get the most out of life, and unique qualities involved in it." Miss Thanholdt urged the students to be unique and to retain their individuality. She also encouraged the students to try new experiences and to live life to the fullest. The evening ended with the Benediction given by Kim Raybuck.

Precious Memories linger in thoughts

"Precious Memories" the 1982 prom theme, was appropriately chosen because many precious memories will remain in the thoughts of all who attended the dance.

Friday night, April 23, an astounding 206 couples arrived at the formal occasion dressed in tuxedos and lacy evening gowns.

Couples began the evening by sharing a delicious ham and chicken dinner. Later couples danced to the sound of Pawnz, a band who played everything from fast beat, popular rock to slow-paced tunes.

The king and queen candidates for prom had been previously selected at a special class meeting. At this meeting ten king and queen candidates were chosen. Their names were put on ballots and distributed to seniors in government and economics classes. The seniors then voted for one king and queen.

Mrs. Donna Moser, prom sponsor, counted the votes. The girl who received the most votes was the queen, and the boy with the most votes was the king. The court consisted of the three runners-up in each category. The winners' names were put in a sealed envelope and kept secret until the night of prom. Much to the delight of the crowd, Karen McMichael was crowned queen and Phil Wichowsky king. Keeping with tradition, the royal couple then danced to the theme song "Precious and Few".

Saturday, enthusiastic prom goers awoke sleepy-eyed to travel to various places. Some went to Indiana University for the "Little 500" bicycle race, to Chicago, and others traveled to Turkey Run to hike, canoe, and picnic.

Centennial marks graduation of '82

As the class of '82, the 100th graduating class of Crown Point High School prepared to walk into the gymnasium, tension and excitement filled the air.

After 30 minutes the 405 graduates finally reached their seats. Salutatorian James Cuffia led the pledge of allegiance and gave the invocation. Next senior class president Bill Lewis gave the welcome.

Reverend Robert E. Eversull gave the baccalaureate message, "Get Off The Chaise Lounge."

Students were honored to have a special guest speaker, former Governor of Indiana, Otis R. Bowen M.D. His address was "Don't Be Afraid to Begin."

Students nervously walked across the stage to receive their diplomas as Mr. Ken Brist, principal, read their names.

To commemorate the 100th graduating class, the students were given a gift of a centennial poem, "100 Years Have Come To Pass," from Crown Point's own poet laureate Charles Swisher. The graduates also received a commemorative medal.

Finally, the moment of being officially graduated came as Dr. Phillip McDaniel hesitated and kept the class in suspense. When the students began to get rowdy, Dr. Phillip McDaniel finally decided to graduate the class, and the gymnasium was filled with screams of joy.

Seniors reminisce as May 28 nears

August 31, the class of '82 entered the main doors of Crown Point High School, and began their "last" first day of school.

Now unlike three years ago, the class of '82 carried clout. As most seniors looked back, many found it hard to believe that this was the year they had long awaited. They no longer would be called itty bitty freshmen, super silly sophomores, or big bad juniors, for they held the title of ''Dynamite Seniors''!

They now realized that their daily high school routine would quickly come to an end and they'd begin to prepare for the game of life.

On May 28, the class of '82 would leave old friends behind along with their old ways, and begin a new way of life.

The Senior class officers are Lisa Buehrle, treasurer; Nancy Lottes, secretary; Robyn Henderson, vice-president; Bill Lewis, president.

Seniors explore college choices

College bound seniors began serious preparation in their sophomore year. Taking college prep courses aided them in preparing for the Scholastic Aptitude Test. These test scores, along with grades, determined which colleges would admit the students.

College bound seniors also attended college night. Representatives from colleges, ranging from Calumet College to Harvard University, were at CPHS to explain their respective policies and requirements. The most popular college choices were Purdue University in Lafayette and Indiana University in Bloomington.

Talking with last year's graduates who are in college gave the seniors an idea of what college life would be like. Planning class schedules, housing, and financial allowances were more steps college-bound seniors had to take before high school drew to a finish.

Seniors reminisce 100th year

As the 100th year came to an end at Crown Point High School, many seniors reminisced about the 100th anniversary and what it meant to them. Many seniors believe this anniversary is a "special" privilege that made their graduation the most memorable at CPHS. Furthermore, many seniors felt a sense of pride to be able to go to the same high school as some of their parents and grandparents. Some seniors even had the same teachers as their parents.

Even though many seniors will not say it openly, they believe that Crown Point High School has given them a good education that has prepared them for college or a job. On the other hand, most seniors are relieved to be graduating. They welcomed being free of the daily routine of high school and entering the world of independence. Seniors agreed that they will always remember their senior year at Crown Point High School.

Leisure lightens routine activities

As the weeks passed many seniors tried to make good use of their final year at Crown Point High School. Some showed an abundance of enthusiasm in classes, activities, clubs, and organizations.

Other seniors spent a minimum of their time at school. They made use of their spare time by working at part time jobs to pay for their extra activities.

Some seniors took their dates to popular movies such as Student Body, Stripes, Raiders of The Lost Ark, Endless Love, Private Lessons, or Porkv's.

The seniors who enjoy listening to music had the opportunity to witness live concerts such as The Rolling Stones, AC/DC, and Journey.

During the winter months, some seniors spent time on the slopes of Alpine Valley, Boyne Mountain in Michigan, and The Pines in Valparaiso, Indiana.

Julie lost her battle with leukemia on April 14, 1982. She was loved by all who knew her, and her courage and strength were inspiring.

She was a caring, loving person who tried hard at independence as her illness would permit.

Julie will live on forever in the hearts and memories of all the people whose lives she touched.

She will be missed, but not forgotten. She would want the memories to be of happy times.

Bulldogmania lifts spirits of juniors

In the fall of '81 juniors were no exception to the plague of drooping school spirit. But this virus soon disappeared, and Bulldogmania returned as strong as ever. New male cheerleaders gave us a new outlook. Moving right along, the juniors joined the ranks of frantic float makers. The work was hard, and the hours were long but second place in the competition wasn't too hard for the juniors to take.

Spirit week gave juniors the chance to wear crazy punk rock costumes to keep the laughs coming all day. Students dressed in satin pants, leopard skin skirts and vests. One junior even wore gold boots to complete the look. Punk rock day showed what creative imaginations the juniors have.

Junior class officers are Julie Haag, president; Dan Paitsell, vice-president; Teri Anderson, secretary; Rich Riddle, treasurer.

Juniors encounter greater challenges

As juniors the class showed more maturity. They proved their maturity by the handling of demanding classes like chemistry, composition and grammar, and advanced algebra. Many juniors began to take life more seriously.

Jobs played an important part in the lives of the juniors. The majority of the juniors worked in town at places like Burger Chef, McDonald's and Jewel. Some juniors worked in the Southlake Mall at stores like County Seat, and Walgreen's, Juniors needed transportation to get to their jobs. Some walked, others bought cars. They began to show responsibility in making car payments and paying for car insurance. Most of the juniors received good experience from their jobs and matured as well.

Juniors—67

Juniors value role friends play daily

During the school year, juniors relied on their friends for many things. Sometimes it was confronting a friend after a broken romance, helping a classmate solve an advanced algebra problem, or enjoying extracurricular activities with a few close friends.

Every weekday before the bell rang at 7:55 a.m., students gathered at a favorite spot to discuss the latest gossip. Lunch time was a great chance to find out what was happening on General Hospital or who won the Battle of the Bands.

After the day was over, friends kept in touch on the phone. Some did homework on the phone. Others discussed the latest couples. No matter what friends did together, they tried to make the most of their precious moments.

In Memory of Ron Hardy

Ron Hardy 1964-1981 Ron Hardy had many friends and teachers here at CPHS who will always remember him. He was a very conscientious hard-working student. His life ended during the summer while working with his father repairing a broken down truck. Students who were close to Ron will always remember him as a good friend and fellow classmate.

Sophomores combine skill and brains

The sophomore class combines brains and athletic ability. Sophomore talent was on display throughout the school. It was apparent in all the sports and in the classrooms. In spite of having more difficult classes like geometry, biology, English, and advanced foreign language classes, sophomores excelled in such sports as tennis, basketball, football, gymnastics, volleyball and track. Sophomores also displayed musical ability in pep band, jazz band, concert band, and symphony band. They also contributed to color guard, winter guard and the various choirs.

Some sophomores were involved in club activities. The clubs ranged from boosting school spirit to racing chariots at the Indianapolis Speedway to painting murals for the Turnabout dance.

Sophomores also exhibited their talents academically. Some showed it by finding their names on the honor roll throughout the school year. Others discovered hidden talents in the classrooms.

Sophomores have made a good start in establishing their place in the atheletic and academic history of Crown Point High School.

Sophomores grow with the changes

Sophomores discover that growing up isn't all fun and games. Most sophomores thought that this year was harder than their freshman year. Almost all sophomores took required courses to be one step closer to completing their majors and minors.

The reaction from most sophomores was, "I don't have enough time to study" or "I have too much homework."

Sophomores were a little more confident of themselves this year. They showed it by taking harder courses, keeping their grades up, joining extracurricular activities, and participating in clubs with their friends.

Some sophomores accept the responsibility of a part-time job, and budget their time so they can keep up their work.

Sophomores follow routine schedules

It began with that dreary repetitious scene played out every weekday morning for all students including sophomores—getting ready for school. Many had to ride a school bus. Most of the time riding the bus was a hasale, because sophomores had to put up with the giggles and pranks of little grade school children.

School began at 8 a.m. with lunch at noon, a time that seemed light years away. Between those hours sophomores ventured from class to class.

In those classes there were theorems and postulates to be learned, animals to be dissected, languages to speak, timed writings to take, and classmates to nummify with bandages. By the time noon came around most sophomores were hungry, and were eager to eat lunch. Some ate cafeteria food, and others stood in the junk food line to get their afternoon nourishment. After lunch with only two or three classes left in the day, sophomores looked forward to the end of another day.

In sports Ted played on the Commercial Bank's Little League baseball team. An eager participant in the things he enjoyed, Ted will always be remembered by students and teachers at Crown Point High School who knew and loved him.

Frosh experience new encounters

"It's huge", was the general comment freshmen made about their step-up to the high school. As freshmen entered the '81-'82 school year, they had many unanswered questions: "Which courses do I choose? Should I play football? What's a Spanish Club?"

Responsibilities also played a big part in the freshmen's new role at CPHS. Assignments became harder and more frequent. Failure to do them resulted in low grades. Grade point average became more important as freshmen looked to the future with the thought of college or entering a trade.

Freshmen could receive only three tardies per semester without being penalized. This prompted them to scurry to class on time to avoid inschool suspension.

Freshmen found the step-up to the high school required independence and the desire to work hard. Most of them handled the task looking forward to the rest of their high school days.

Freshmen mature, pursue interests

The first year of high school for many is the first step to maturity. The freshman year gives the chance for young students to expand out of their peer group and associate with students older than themselves. A step up from Taft, ninth grade offers a wider range of extracurricular activities. A greater variety of classes also allows each individual to pursue his or her own specific interests.

The high school's open campus also gives the freshmen more freedom than Taft. With this freedom, the students have a choice to go off school grounds during lunch.

Frosh experience close encounters

The leisure time of some freshmen is occupied with an obsession with video games. Some prefer the home video system, while others pay countless quarters to play the games in an arcade. The addiction to these machines in some cases costs a freshman ten to fifteen dollars a week. Some students fail to do their homework because of the hours spent battling the machines of with

Student Council strives for spirit

The purpose of the Student Council is to teach the participating members the aspects of leadership and at the same time giving them a voice in the duties and responsibilities of CPHS.

Monthly meetings are held, chaired by Miss Stella Batagiannis and Mr. L. Jay Jones. Duties and responsibilities are determined, and the numbers and types of events to be sponsored is the main topic at these meetings.

This year the Student Council really outdid themselves in their contributions to the school spirit of CPHS. Highlighting the events were dances, January 23 and February 5 which the Student Council sponsored to boost student participation. They were a great success in generating school spirit.

Classics '82, the talent show, was held again this year. The hard work and efforts of the performers were appreciated as the students registered the audiences' approval.

An added responsibility of the Student Council is the running of the concession stands and the candy machines which provides the funds to support these various activities. The yearbook staff and the junior class received a portion of the money that the Council made from after game dances.

NHS members find new activities

National Honor Society members elected to have an active club early in the school year. Soon after Christmas senior class officers and NHS members started planning a fund raising activity which they called "Battle of the Bands." This contest between rock bands featured three local groups. Everyone in the audience voted for his favorite band. When all the ballots were counted, "Exciter" had won. Everyone involved enjoyed the evening, and NHS found the contest very profitable.

In March and April the society competed in a "Quiz Bowl." A four member panel visited several different schools throughout the two months to compete against many other teams. The contestants not only had to answer questions in many different subject areas, but they also had to compete for the chance by sounding their buzzers. Although this was Crown Point's first year, the team won many of its contests.

In April the society added 51 new members during an induction ceremony.

State Reps learn about government

During the summer Boy's and Girl's State representatives attended a statewide convention at the Indiana University campus in Terre Haute. The delegates learned about the roles of government officials and their offices. They set up and ran a state government for two weeks.

Windfall fosters creative efforts

Windfall, the literary-art magazine, emphasized the showcasing of the best creative efforts of the CPHS students.

Approximately forty-five students participated on Windfall this year. They worked to promote the magazine. They also raised money, collected contributions, and prepared the magazine for publication.

Staff members visited art and English classes to encourage students to submit to Windfall and to answer questions concerning the magazine. Student contributions to Windfall included poetry, stories, personal views, photographs, and drawings.

Seniors dominate Inklings staff

The Inklings had a successful year as seniors made up most of the staff. Four seniors headed the editorial board and also dominated the reporting staff. Jim Fischer, in his fourth year on the Inklings' staff, headed the editorial board as editor-in-chief. Sam McCord and Wendy Oneschak, in their first year as editors, learned the procedures quickly. Sherri Higgins, after three years on the Inklings' staff, resigned, and Anne Schoenborn filled the position of news editor.

The bi-weekly paper's circulation improved as students bought more newspapers, helping the Inklings to welcome sell-outs. Popular features included record reviews and movie reviews. These reviews gave students the opportunity to read the opinion of peers as opposed to that of adults.

The paper maintained the eight page format but included more feature and sports articles.

Page design was also modified with the increase in the number of pictures and graphic previews on the front page to indicate the paper's content.

The annual Turnabout Dance was the most successful in the history of Inklings' sponsorship. Staff members prepared for weeks prior to the dance, selecting a theme, band, and decorations. The evening was not only a social success, but a financial one as well.

Friends, admirers and sweethearts acknowledged their feelings through the Valentine's Day carnation sales. This also was successful as the staff sold over one thousand flowers. To climax the year, Inklings participated in the Quill and Scroll Banquet.

Excalibur honors hundredth class

The Excalibur staff begins to build a new and different yearbook from the opening day of school. The new staff members listen intently as editors explain how to write copy, cutlines, and headlines as well as how to select good pictures for a layout.

This year the staff wanted to select the perfect theme for the one hundredth graduating class. Editors of the specific sections make and distribute picture schedules to maintain the theme throughout the yearbook.

Since the cost of printing a yearbook went up, the price for students also increased. To raise the funds needed, the staff chose to sell Milk Duds and Starbursts as a change of pace from last year's M&M sales.

In an all-out effort to increase yearbook sales, staff members visited classrooms to encourage students to buy a yearbook and to answer any questions that the students had about yearbook costs. This proved to be worthwile in the total number of earlybird yearbook sales.

Foreign language clubs flourish

While Crown Point High School celebrated its hundredth anniversary, modern language students joined together to celebrate their common interest in foreign cultures. A trilingual party was held the week before Christmas to celebrate the holiday. Each language, French, German, and Spanish, contributed some of its culture to make the party unique. The clubs joined together once again during the second week of February to celebrate foreign language week with costumes, food and music

French enjoyed les pâtisseries les plus délicieuses

After one year in existence, Le Cercle Francais, the French Club, began to supply the student body with traditions that could last for years. The Crepe Fete was an enjoyable fall event for the entire school and a profitable activity for the club.

The Büche de Noël, Christmas Yule Log Cake Contest, also developed into a delectable tradition for CPHS students, especially the French Club members who taste tested the cakes. These most capable judges chose the cake entered by Teresa Deming and Chris Mace as best of show. Becky Burczyk's was voted best tasting, and Shawn Sacek's, best decorated.

Le Cercle Francais members became connoisseurs of fine French pastry by the time they held the cake contest. From the beginning of the school year they baked and sampled food, attempting to find les patisseries les plus delicieuses (the most delicious pastries) for a bake sale held in the spring.

With funds raised from the Crepe Fete and bake sale, the club purchased imported cheeses for a private French cheese tasting party.

Records were played regularly at the meetings to create a distinctly French atmosphere, and a French feature film was purchased to give all club members a taste of modern French culture.

Club was reich an Deutscher Kultur

With a new German teacher, Herr David Rosenbaum, the German Club from the previous year was reorganized and named Bundesverein. Both current and former German students joined, and together they furthered their awareness of German culture. The Germanic atmosphere which the club attempted to create at parties and meetings was greatly enriched by two exchange students, Annette Leuthen from Germany and Per Lauridsen from Denmark.

At Christmas the club decorated a tannenbaumchen (little fir tree) with candles which were lit for a while as German custom dictates. In the second semester, the club sponsored a Bratwurst roast and raised enough funds to go to Frankfort, Illinois, a small town reich an deutscher Kultur (rich in German culture).

Spanish served comidas autenticas de Mexico y de España

After five years without a Spanish club, student interest was once again aroused, and a new Spanish club, Club de Español, was founded. After a late start in the fall, the club members enjoyed an exciting year with an interesting program planned for every meeting.

Before school recessed for Christmas vacation, the club celebrated the important holiday with comidas autenticas de Mexico y España (authentic Spanish and Mexican dishes).

The Spanish Club members filled their treasury with profits from a taco fiesta which they sponsored in the second semester. Finally, the club members celebrated their successful year of experiencing Spanish customs by going to the Toledo, a Spanish restaurant in Chicago, where they were totally engulfed in a Spanish atmosphere complete with Flamenco dancers.

Latin Club wins chariot race again

The Latin Club, one of the largest clubs in the school, had a very active year. In October members of the club traveled to the Indianapolis 500 track to compete in the National Chariot race. The race consisted of a chariot pulled by three to four runners around a one-mile track. For the second consecutive year, the Crown Point Latin Club emerged winners.

The "Saturnalia", the annual Latin banquet was held during Latin week, December 7-11. Everyone was dressed in a toga. Skits on Roman life were performed.

In early February the club battled Andrean in a Certamen Contest. Although the Latin Club lost the contest, members enjoyed the competition.

During spring break the Latin Club traveled to Ball State University for the Latin Convention. There they attended seminars to learn more about Latin. A banquet conclued the convention's activities. Because bad weather made the roads impassable, the students stay at the Ball State was extended to an extra night with students sleeping on dorm floors.

In the spring Mrs. Ruth Kernagis had the distinction of being named Latin Teacher of the Year for the State of Indiana

Eric Berman takes second at state

The Speech Club is headed by three coaches this year: Miss Marilee Thanholdt, an English teacher, Mr. David Rosenbaum, a German teacher, and Mr. David Hamacher, a Crown Point attorney.

The club, open to anyone interested in public speaking, develops poise in addressing groups and helps the student project his or her voice.

Club members meet with their coaches two or three times a week, and the coaches hear and review their speeches.

Eric Berman, a senior, went to state this year where 72 high schools competed. Eric came back with a second place barely missing first.

To raise money for the club activities, members sold carnations at Christmas

Film Club learns art of animation

The Film Club's main interest is how films are made and making small movies.

To teach filming techniques, Mr. George Tachtiris has club members improvise situations. He then takes pictures of these improvisations. Club members analyze the completed films and study ways to improve them.

Club members also learn the art of animation and study the history of film development.

Clubs satisfied diverse interests

Crown Point offered a wide range of clubs to satisfy the varied needs of its students. For one day during Handicapped Awareness Week, HERO Club members were blindfolded or confined to wheelchairs. Through this and other projects, HERO members learned more about other people and themselves. Early in April HERO Club members joined the Future Homemakers of America at a statewide convention. The FHA sponsored a rock-a-thon in January to raise funds for the trip.

For the students interested in board games, the Chess Club expanded its curriculum to include a variety which helps sharpen concentration and improve strategy. Members frequently met informally to play Dungeons and Dragons. a very popular board game.

Biology Club existed only for the advanced biology students, so the club actually met daily during fourth hour when students studied about living creatures, dissected dead animals, and fed their pet rats.

The mathematically minded students found that the Math Club provided a chance to keep in top shape while earning contest points. Several members won "Mathlete" T-shirts.

Art Club enhanced school and city

Members of the Crown Point Art Club added color and design to their school and city in 1981. The club's first major activity was to design and paint four giant Christmas cards for the Crown Point Chamber of Commerce. These signs were arranged around the courthouse square to express "season's greetings" to all passers by.

The club also painted wall murals of winter scenery to decorate the school cafeteria for the Christmas turnabout dance. This year the club did not take any trips to see an art gallery, but rather sponsored their own art show at the public library so members could display their masterpieces.

Crown Point Choirs strive to be best

This year, the most important goal for all four choirs was to get involved in the school and to help boost school spirit.

The Choraleers and Choralairs, or boys' and girls' choir, are a free opportunity for any person who wishes to sing. These groups offer students knowledge, fun, and a chance to prove their talents. Both choirs sing serious music. They also participate in concerts and contests. Choir members said they have a more relaxed environment in these classes than in the ordinary every day class.

The Show Choir, or Swing Choir, is an extracurricular activity. The members are selected by auditions in September. To audition students dance and sing to a record. This year, the Show Choir performed music and dances for live audiences and was featured in the Spring Concert. In January, the groups took first place in a Swing Choir contest held at Valparaiso and in May, they organized a chamber banquet.

The A Cappella Choir accomplished many things this year. Besides participating in concerts, the choir competed in contests and sang at the Lake County Choral Festival. For the second consecutive year, the A Cappella Choir was invited to attend Albion College, where they harmonized along with other talented students.

Madrigals display medieval customs

Madrigal singers are an elite group chosen by audition. The main activity of Madrigals is to present Elizabethan style dinners. The atmosphere is that of the sixteenth century as costumes, foods, songs and dance are displayed.

The costumes worn are authentic and this year six students made their own. Velvets, silks, satins and heavy tapestry make up the beautiful costumes of the girls. The boys' costumes consist of tunics and leotards.

December was the busiest month for the Madrigals. They had twenty-five performances for local groups, club and organizations. Madrigals also appeared on Channel 50 with six other area schools and sang twice on WFLM.

The Elizabethan style dinners were slightly restructured this year. A chamberlain and jester were added to do most of the dialogue. Mr. Marion Kellum and a few drama students performed a mummer's play. A string concert was added to the brass instruments.

Finally, the Madrigals were invited to perform at Deep River Park for a Medieval Fair. The fair was held in May and was open to the public so that all could experience an Elizabethan Era.

The Madrigals once again received a first in ISSMA and a perfect score in state competition.

Faculty members display talents in 'Our Town' roles

Our Town, written by Thornton Wilder, depicts small town life in Grover's Corners, New Hampshire. The story follows the life of George Gibbs and Emily Webb, how they grow up together, fall in love, and eventually marry. The last act is the most important of all. It tries to show what life is like after death and that the soul wanders waiting for something to hancen.

The entire story is told by the narrator, and there are absolutely no sets or scenery. Most of the action is done by pantomime.

Although the actors had to learn a New England dialect, technically the play was an easy one.

Due to a shortage in male cast members, Mr. Ed O'Brien, Mr. George Tachtiris, Mr. Larry Bock, and Mr. Mike Klebba joined the cast. Not only did the faculty members bring out the maturity in the student actors, but they also portrayed the older characters in the play effectively.

'Matchmaker' shows much subtle humor

The fall play, The Match Maker, a rowdy farce written by Thornton Wilder, was presented by the Drama Club this year.

In this lively comedy, Dolly Levi (Karen Wayman), the matchmaker, tries to find a wife for Horace Vandergelder (Mark Henderson). Mrs. Levi takes Mr. Vandergelder on a trip to New York City to meet the "perfect wife" who in the end is Mrs. Levi herself.

While Mr. Vandergelder is gone, the head clerk, Cornelius Hackle (Jim Fischer) and his assistant Barnaby Tucker (Kris Johnstone) go to New York City where accidentally, they run into Mr. Vandergelder and hide in the hat shop of Mrs. Irene Molloy (Ruth Oliver). # 'Carousel' draws large audience

The CPHS Choral Department presented the musical "Carousel" as the final performance of the 1981-82 school year. Jon Becker and Karen Beauchamp played the leading roles as Bill Bigelow and Julie Jordon. Twenty-six supporting actors, as well as nine dancers and townspeople, were part of the show.

Sets were designed and built, costumes were sewn for the perfect fit and lines were memorized for a first performance, April 30. The play was presented in two consecutive weekends. The final performance on May 8 was the most successful, attracting an audience of over 400.

The musical was co-directed by Mr. Marion Kellum and Mr. Michael Wade, with choreography by Carol Eversull, and orchestra directed by Mr. James Deal.

The setting of the musical is just before the turn of the century, along the New England coast. The story begins as Bill Bigelow, a carnival barker, meets Julie Jordon. Bill falls in love with Julie and they eventually marry. Bill loses his job with the carnival, and upon learning that Julie is pregnant begins to rob in order to support his family. Once caught, Bill commits suicide. One day, he is sent from "up there" to do good for his wrong doings. Upon his daughter Louise's graduation, Bill makes his devotion so strong that it is felt throughout the crowd and transforms his wife and daughter into loving and hopeful people. Through the priceless gift of love, Bill not only saved his wife and daughter, but also himself.

Royal Regiment has successful season

This year the Crown Point Royal Regiment had another successful season. The year began right after school dismissed. The band went to a camp near Lafayette to learn the fundamentals of marching along with the routine they would use throughout the summer and fall.

After the camp the band went straight into the performances. The first was at Kokomo, Indiana, where the band took first place and also received the best colorguard award. After that, the band began to prepare for the National Cherry Festival parade and field show.

After many weeks of hard work the band went to Traverse City, Michigan. Here the band placed a hard-earned fifth place in the field show competition and thirty-six out of some eighty bands in the parade.

Because of a change in judging and qualifying procedures when the band competed in the newly formed ISSMA at state, it received a second in Division I instead of its usual first.

Sometime later Mr. Michael Winslow, band director, received a letter inviting the Royal Regiment to participate in Mardi Gras parade in New Orleans. The band had to decline the honor to participate in this parade because of the administration's concern for the safety of the students.

State reorganizes musical programs

This year the State Music Organization of Indiana was redeveloped into a new group. This is the first time it has been changed in many years. The rules for all the competitions were reorganized.

In spite of these changes, all the bands did extremely well at their contests. This year the bands and the orchestra collected sixty-four gold medals and sixteen silver medals at the State Solo and Ensemble Contest at Highland.

There was also a change within the Music Department itself. Instead of just two bands, there were three. The top players became the Symphony Band, the Freshman players, the Freshman Band, and everyone else, the Concert Band. This plan added considerable depth to the music program.

This year the orchestra participated in many contests and clinics with other schools in Northwestern Indiana. The clinic in Highland invited most of the high schools in Northwest Indiana. The clinic's guest conductor was Mr. Robert Vodnoy, Conductor of the Northwest Indiana Symphony. Crown Points students played in most of the top spots at the clinic.

Jazz Band travels in midwest area

This year the Crown Point High School Jazz Band traveled around the midwest area for many competitions and performances. For instance, in March, the band traveled to Michigan to perform at Northwest Michigan University's prestigious jazz competition and workshop with guest pianist, Clair Fisher, who has composed and arranged many popular songs. The band played early in the morning and placed second and received many soloists awards. Soloists receiving awards were Steve Howell on trombone: Tom Apikos on drums; Dave Carl on guitar; Tim King on trumpet; and Alan Sproat on tenor saxophone.

Later in the year the band was invited to Notre Dame's annual jazz festival. This was a great honor since only a handful of bands are invited from schools all over the country. The band also participated in the new ISSMA state contest in Valparaiso and received a first in Division I.

Ouill and Scroll inducts members

Late in April, the staff members of the three publications Inklings, Excalibur, and Windfall attended a banquet in their honor. After a buffet style dinner, Miss Eleanore Britton, adviser of Inklings and Excalibur, and Mr. Eric Witherspoon, adviser of Windfall, inducted twelve new members into Quill and Scroll during a solemn ceremony. Quill and Scroll is the International Honorary Journalism Society. Members of the society are students in the eleventh and twelfth grades who rank in the upper third of their class. All have made significant contributions in journalism at their schools.

After the ceremony superstar, craftsman, stringer, and cub awards were given to staff members according to their performance, level of experience, and responsibility.

The editors of each publication distributed "screwball" awards to their staffs during a humorous part of the evening. Each "award" was created specifically for an individual to recognize his unique qualities.

The G.V.C. and Lettermen's Clubs started the year with the initiation of new members. During homecoming the G.V.C. sold mums and balloon-race tickets. The Lettermen's Club worked at all home basketball games and sponsored the senior banquet in April. Both clubs also sold M&M's and teamed up to bake bread.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes held a basketball marathon this year. They planned an ice-skating outing and a dating game. The new sponsors are Mike Klebba, electricity teacher, and Andy Keene, sports writer for the Lake County Star.

Aides give service in numerous ways

An aide is classified as an assistant. Every day office, attendance, cafeteria and AV aides are called upon for existence.

The cafeteria aides help prepare lunch everyday. Sometimes their job requires them to come to school earlier than other students.

The attendance aides go from room to room everyday collecting the attendance slips. Often an aide must remind a forgetful teacher of the attendance.

The office aides are students who save the administrators and secretaries many steps by running errands, delivering messages, and helping with attendance records.

The guidance aides also help the attendance aides and run errands. They also assist counselors by doing odd jobs.

The library aides assist in shelving books and straighting out the card file.

The AV aides assist by delivering audio-video machines and keeping them working.

JV and freshmen end season with winning records

First year coach Rich Svihra, and coach Matt Smock, led the junior varsity football team to a successful season. Although the team lost a tough first game to Valpo (8-4), its spirit prevailed. Through hard work and great effort, the JV won the next four consecutive games. In the game against Lake Central the team made a great attempt but lost by a close score of 8-7.

In the next game the team quickly returned its winning streak. The Dogs defeated Lowell 14-13 and shut out Munster by a score of 28-0. The team ended with an impressive 6-2 season. Its conference record stood at 5-1. Overall, the junior varsity team out-scored its opponents 151-41.

The freshman football team also had a successful season. Under the direction of Coach Chuck Smoljan and Bill Brissette, the "A" team finished 4-3, while the "B" team finished 3-1-1. The biggest victory for the frosh was against the Lowell Red Devils. Coach Smoljan said, "It was an excellent team effort." The Dors outscored Lowell 27-6.

Cheerleaders are No. 1 at camp

Helping Crown Point keep its title "The Crazy Crew," was the goal of this year's varsity cheerleading squad.

The squad was chosen in the spring of 1981 and got an early start in preparing themselves for the oncoming sports' season. The girls held a car wash and sold candy and pizzat to raise money for camp. They also held a five-day cheerleading clinic open to all girls in grades 4-6. The squad taught cheers, chants, jumps, and other techniques involved in cheering.

This year's squad attended an NCA camp in Oxford, Ohio. Some 25 squads from five different states attended this same camp. The girls were awarded a blue ribbon and a spirit stick each night. They were also among the five squads chosen to compete for the "Award of Excellence." Crown Point's varsity squad won this award and was named No. 1 squad at the camp.

The girls returned from camp full of new ideas and excitement. With the addition of male cheerleaders, the squad was able to build higher pyramids and bring out more enthusiasm and school spirit at the year's sporting events.

J.V. and frosh keep on cheering

Although junior varsity and freshman sports' events don't always have large crowds, they still have cheerleaders. Both the J.V. and freshman cheerleading squads did their part in keeping up school spirit this season.

The two squads started off their seasons by attending summer camp. The J.V. squad went along with the varity cheerleaders to an NCA camp in Ohio. The girls represented Crown Point by winning two superior ribbons, two excellent ribbons, and a spirit stick. The freshman squad attended an NCA camp at Ball State University. They, too, did an outstanding job. They brought home three superior ribbons and two excellent ones.

Besides cheering at football games and boys' and girls' basketball games, the girls also participated in the sports' assemblies. Both squads helped lead their respective grades in the school song and several class competition cheers. The freshman squad did a fine job in leading their classmates in their first assembly, as the class of '85 was awarded the homecoming spirit stick.

CP-ettes take two 1st place trophies at Miss Drill Team

The CP-ettes performed throughout the year under the guidance of Mrs. Mary Anne Stone.

Tryouts took place in the spring of 1981 when 24 girls were chosen for the group. During the summer, they practiced two hours a day, five days a week to prepare for the Fourth of July parade.

They also attended camp in July at Notre Dame for four days. There they received the Sparkle and Shine ribbon.

The CP-ett's marched in the Labor Day parade at Lowell and the Popcorn Parade in Valparaiso. They also did outstanding performances at the beginning of each football game and during half time at all the basketball sames.

The highlight for the team was their competition in the Miss Drill Team where they walked away with two first place trophies.

The girls raised money during the summer by conducting pop bottle drives and holding several bake sales. Once school started, they sold tootsie pop banks and held more bake sales.

Girls end season with 5-6 record

Under Coach Don Kyes, the girls' cross country team ended its season with a 5-6 record. Due to injuries to Lisa Ruffing and Teresa Lambert and lack of personnel, the team suffered setbacks. In spite of these setbacks, the team finished with good attitudes and outstanding individual improvements.

The girls had difficult competition this year. Senior Lisa Ruffing grabbed first place in the two meets she competed in. Freshman Jenny Lambert received 4th place with a time of 11:49 in the regional meet at LaPorte, which was a personal best time on a tough course.

In the Lake Suburban Conference the team placed 3rd, with a 4th place finish from Jenny Lambert. At the IHSAA sectional the team placed 5th, with all the girls completing the course with good times.

Most of the nine-girl team of runners were underclassmen, with the exceptions of Teresa Lambert and Lisa Ruffing, who will be greatly missed. Coach Don Kyes is hoping for several of the girls to return next year to make the running season successful.

Principals foster spirit of unity

The goals of the 1981-1982 school year were to promote student unity and to improve academic courses according to Mr. Kenneth Brist, principal. This year was the first time since 1978 that the administrators permitted an all-school pep assembly for the girls' basketball team attending semi-state. Administrators also got into the spirit by painting their faces and performing popular cheers.

The administrators expanded the HERO program and introduced COE, a new business program. In the fall of 1982 the administrators plan to elaborate the current programs, to add HOE, a program for health careers, and a computer course.

Mr. Kenneth Brist, (top, Indiana State University, M.S.), principal, is in charge of the total educational process.

Mr. Jay Jones (middle left, Purdue University, M.S.), assistant principal, is in charge of junior and senior discipline.

Mr. Indalecio Ruiz (middle right, Indiana State University, M.S.), assistant principal, handles attendance procedures.

Miss Stella Batagiannis (above, Indiana University M.S.) served first semester as an administrative intern.

Mr. David Sykes (bottom left, Murray State University, M.S.), assistant principal, is in charge of freshman and sophomore discipline.

Mr. Richard Webb (bottom right, Ball State University, M.A.) is the athletic director and coordinator of sport events.

Energy projects cut expenditures

At the end of the 1981 school year the Central Office began its energy projects. These projects included new lights in classrooms and the gymnasium. New classroom windows were also added to save energy and to improve insulation. The renovations include changing from fuel oil to gas heating. These projects were put into effect to conserve energy and costs.

The Central Office had tentative plans to install new sound systems in the gym and the stadium before spring graduation of 1982. Improvements on the stadium include a new concession stand. Plans are underway to construct a building trades shon.

A pool water heater and swimming scoreboard were purchased and installed during the summer of 1982. During this past year a few larger buses were put into use. The Central Office has plans to purchase more of the larger capacity buses this year.

Guidance expands student services

The guidance department expanded its newsprint brochures. The paper now includes course descriptions, a curricular guide, and a club directory. These new brochures enable students to select their course and activities.

The department now offers a special group counseling for those students who have experienced divorce in their families. The group meets on a regular basis. During these sessions the students are able to talk about their problems with others who have gone through similar ordeals.

The guidance department is also using new micro computers to store student identification including name, address, and grade. They are also planning to add students' grade point averages, test scores, and interests.

Prices remain low in CPHS cafeteria

Despite rising food costs, the school cafeteria managed to serve its meals at last year's price of 75 cents. Wholesome meals planned by Mrs. Doris Sproat, the school dietician, remained popular with the students; however, the junk food line was also long. The salad bar was a favorite again this year with both students and faculty. More students lined up to eat when the meal of the day was pizza, tacos, or spaghetti. During foreign language week in February, the cafeteria served different ethnic dishes each day of the week. The staff also served banquest for various clubs.

COE program offers business training

To students in the new COE program (Cooperative Office Education) school is more than attending classes and receiving a report card. Students in COE learn techniques of job application, communication, and receive paychecks along with report cards! The COE program enables students to go to school and at the same time work in a business-related occupation. Mr. Callison, a business teacher, is director of the COE program.

Students receive two credits per semester and are paid $3.35 an hour. They are employed a minimum of 15 hours and a maximum of 25 hours weekly.

With the help of Mr. Callison students have obtained jobs at The Holiday Star, The First National Bank, the Crown Point School Corporation and other businesses in this area.

A full time employee at the training station supervises students. The employer provides office-related experience and grades students on performance.

Teachers combine work, activities

Did you ever wonder what a teacher does when he's not in school? Some teachers have outside jobs, special interests, and hobbies, Mr. Victor Dykiel is active in the Army Reserve. Mr. Gerald Caravana and Mr. Dave Schaeffer operate the Haymarket Restaurant in Lowell. Mr. Charles Bowman is an evening custodian at the First Prebysterian Church in Crown Point, In his spare time, Mr. Al Gruber is a photographer. One teacher, Mr. Kenneth Witt ran in the Boston Marathon in the spring, Several other teachers such as Mr. Robert Conard, Mr. Ronald Coghill, and Miss Toni Yudt jog in their spare time. These part time jobs and activities combined with school work make a full day for any teacher.

Teaching demands many extra hours

At the 2:35 bell students swarm from the building! But the teachers are busy preparing for the next day's classes and tying up the loose ends of the day. Papers need grading, lessons plans need revising, films and tapes need previewing. Teachers spend many hours of after class time preparing each day's classes. Besides this there is reading of new books and materials to keep up with current trends in teaching and in content areas. Teachers also need various secretarial skills. Records need to be kept accurate and periodical department reports have to be written.

Students grumble about an upcoming test, then worry, and cram the night before. For teachers, exams are even more work. The test must written, typed, and duplicated. Afterwards, teachers must grade and record the tests. It seems that teachers have homework, too.
